FOX'S FERRY IS DISCUSSED

Chamber of Commerce Committee Reports Progress On Proposition.

IN GOOD ROADS MOVE

Ready for City Manager Election October 4—Report Received On Trent Amalgam Company.

The establishment of a ferry service between this city and Fox's ferry on the opposite side of the river was discussed yesterday afternoon by the directors of the chamber of commerce and the committee in charge of the plans for the proposed ferry reported progress.

It was stated that an engineer has been employed by the authorities of Prince Gorge County, Md., for the purpose of making a survey of a proposed road to the ferry and also to give an estimate of the cost of construction of same.

A report was made that the Trent Amalgam Company, now located at the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, expects to begin active operations the latter part of September and a sample of their product was shown at the meeting.

N. T. Preston, of Richmond, of the Good Roads Association of Virginia, addressed the gathering in the interest of that organization and the chamber subscribed for 150 membership at $2 each.

A report was made that plans have been completed for the election to be held October 4 for the city manager plan form of city government. All of the legal angles it was stated have been straightened out.

The film has made for the retail merchants' bureau of the chamber of commerce it was stated has been completed and soon will be shown here.

In addition to the foregoing considerable business of a routine nature also was disposed of.

Lease Big House For Boston Jobless

Boston, Aug. 31.—The mysterious "Mr. Zero," who has announced that he will undertake to feed Boston's unemployed the coming winter, has taken an eight-year lease on a large building in the North End, it was announced today. Men are at work renovating the interior and preparing for housing jobless men. It will furnish sleeping quarters to 380 men when completed, it is stated. The only obligation is that the place be "kept clean."

The opening is scheduled to take place Sunday morning with a grand breakfast, and "Mr. Zero" will make an address of welcome to the guests. The mystery man, who is believed to be Urbain J. Ledoux, of New York, will remove all doubt as to his identity on that occasion, it is declared.

Work on the club house for the down-and-outers is going forward with dispatch under direction of Ralph Jones, "Mr. Zero's" personal representative. Jobless men, anxious to pay for the hospitality near at hand, are assisting in the work.

"Nobody will be turned away hungry and nobody will be required to pay," Jones explains. There will be no religious services of any kind and, indeed, the single obligation placed upon the men is that they behave and keep the place clean.

N. J. DRY AGENTS RAID ATLANTIC CITY CAFES

Atlantic City, Aug. 31.—State prohibition agents aided by private detectives early yesterday raided many Boardwalk cafes in what was described as the greatest attempt ever made to make Atlantic City bone dry. The warrants served totaled 126.

The raids began late last night and Special Prosecutor Gaskill predicted that they would not end until tomorrow. More than a score of detectives had been assembled for the job. Mr. Gaskill was unable to estimate the value of liquor already seized, but predicted that it would run high into thousands of dollars.

Boardwalk establishments raided included Martin's Cafe, Cafe de Paris, the Moulin Rouge and Thomas Moore's cafe. Many other places in other sections of the city were visited and several empolyes arrested.

Party Sails To Hunt Treasure Lost At Sea

New York, Aug. 31.—Uncheered except by her own crew and almost unnoticed in the bustling traffic lanes of the harbor, the little American steam trawler Rippie put to sea this afternoon on one of those romantic quests that always bring a thrill to the imagination—a hunt for buried treasure.

Silver and gold—21 tons of bar silver, many kegs of gold coins—are what Capt. Jack Carmichael and his crew of 25 are after. The stuff is at a certain point buried beneath the shifting sands of the Atlantic. That certain spot is known accurately and surely to the treasure-seekers. And besides the silver and gold are copper and lead in huge qualities. A rich haul, if it can be hauled.

Ten years ago the Ward liner Merida, bound from Havana to New York, was rammed by the American mail steamship Admiral Farragut. She sank with her precious cargo before even the safe containing the passengers' money and valuables could be opened. All her passengers and crew were taken aboard the Farragut.

Captain Robertson and Chief Officer George W. Nordstrom were in charge. She went down in 35 fathoms of water. The two men made precise reckoning of her position. Captain Robertson has since died, but Nordstrom, now a captain, has the necessary data, and he was one of those who shoved off this afternoon in the little Ripple.

In 1916 an effort was made to salvage the treasure of the Merida—Percy Rockefeller and James A. Stillman were back of this, it was said—but the attempt failed because of heavy weather for one reason, and, for another, because the treasure divers did not have the exact location.

Seize Real Beer On Way To Hylan Dinner.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug 31.—The truck load of real honest to goodness beer, which was held up here because John Poliso was driving his truck with a broken muffler, was purchased at Allentown Pa., brewery and was intended for a dinner at Midland Beach Saturday night, at which Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, was a speaker.

It was learned today, when the committee which had arranged the dinner was informed that the beer was being detained here, efforts were made to obtain its release in time for the dinner, the police refused to permit its removal when an analysis showed it contained 4:39 per cent. alcoholic content. Police Chief Kiely said today that the beer had been destroyed. Poliso was fined $500 and sentenced to three months in Union County Jail for transporting liquor without a permit.

Labor Pledges Aid On Unemployment.

Atlantic City, Aug. 31.—Organized labor is ready to consider any invitation from the Government to participate in a conference with a view of solving the unemployment situation, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced today at the closing session of the federation's executive council.

"Such a conference," he declared, "is not to be opposed when the workers of the country are suffering from unemployment and there is no work in sight."

Mr. Gompers declined to state what cooperation organized labor would give such a conference, but indicated that it would have the federation's full support.

STATE NEWS

Winchester.—A Pole Angus bull weighing 1,100 pounds, burrowed his way into a straw rick on the farm of Howard Clipp, near Charles Town, and was found dead the following morning.

Danville.—One of the largest law suits filed in Person County, N. C., has been brought at Roxboro by John S. Cunningham against the heirs of A. J. Long for large tracts of land in Person. On motion of the plaintiff the case has been removed to Durham, N. C., for trial.

Richmond.—Although the indications point to favorable action by Congress on Federal Aid for road construction. when that body convenes late in September it is reasonably certain that the total appropriation will be cut from $109,000,000, the amount available for Federal Aid and National forest roads for the year 1920-21 to $75,000,000, according to George P. Coleman, State Highway Commissioner and Chairman of Executive Committee of the American Association of State Highway officials.

Danville.—The shooting on Saturday night at Schoolfield of Fred Springfield, the Schoolfield police assert, revealed that cock-fighting is being indulged in. While they have been unable thus far to secure a positive statement as to this, it is fairly well established that the shooting affray was the result of a wager laid on a game rooster during a fight which was witnessed at a secluded spot in the mill village. When the shooting took place those who witnessed the engagement scattered but friends picked up Springfield and carried him to a hospital. His condition is not serious and his wound is described as a light one.

Norfolk.—What promised to be a delivery of fifty or more prisoners was checked early this morning when six negroes were caught in the attempt to escape from the city jail. Two of them made their getaway, and have not yet been captured. Four others, surrounded by policemen and firemen, were held within the prison walls and again landed in their cells. Ike Griffin and Frederick Williams are both in hiding somewhere in the city, while the police are searching for them. Frederick Williams, alias John Holmes, is the negro who escaped from the state penitentiary and was arrested here several days ago.

Staunton.—I. W. Grattan Crawford today received a typewritten letter signed Ku Klux Klan. It warned him to wear more respectable clothing, stating it was known he could wear better, that he must take a bath oftener, that he must cease speaking to women and girls on the streets in an undignified manner, that he must go to work within 30 days or leave town. The letter intimated that unless he complies within the stipulated time a member or members of the klan would employ force to eject him. Crawford turned the letter over to postmaster S. M. Donald who, it is understood, has placed it in the hands of an inspector of the postoffice department who happened to be in Staunton today.

Norfolk.—Eels, five feet long and a foot in circumference, were caught at Cape Lookout breakwater a few days ago. Sounds like a fish story of large proportions, but the lighthouse tender Columbine brought confirmation of the yarn to this port in the shape of two of the eels, which were placed on exhibition. First Officer Holm and several members of the Columbine's crew fished most of the whole night and landed a dozen eels. A number were hookd, but got away. Thirty-six two-inch and two and one-half inch hooks were carried away by the eels. In one of the eels three hooks were found.

Petersburg.—A coroner's jury holding an inquest here tonight returned a verdict to the effect that William Stafford, well known Petersburg man, came to his death from gun shot wounds inflicted by the hands of A. B. Anthony, a member of the Richmond plain clothes squad. Stafford was killed on August 22, when a party of detectives and policemen from Richmond came to Petersburg in search of Walter Hines, alleged slayer of Patrolman Curtis in Richmond. The party of Richmond officers began scouring Prince George county and by accident ran on a huge illicit distillery on the Cox farm several miles from Petersburg. Anthony was left to guard the distillery, while the other officers returned to Petersburg to secure assistance in destroying the plant, and according to the story told by the defense, Stafford approached the distillery and opened fire on Anthony, following which he was almost instantly killed by the detective. Anthony is at liberty under bail of $5,000.

Railroad Refunding Goes On

Washington, Aug. 31.—Railroad refunding operations are being continued despite the failure of refunding legislation to pass before the recess of Congress. President Harding takes the view, it was said today, that existing sections of the Transportation act authorize him to proceed, although he has asked Congress for an instrumentality through which the work may be done.

RIOTING TOLL INCREASING

Six Persons Killed and Many Wounded In Belfast.

FIRING IN CITY

Continues Till Curfew Hour—Mobs Resort To Torch—Striking Railway Men Back To Work.

Belfast, Aug. 31.—Six persons were killed today during the renewed rioting in the city, and many others were wounded, some of them seriously. Numerous cases of gunshot wounds are under treatment in the hospitals.

During the day in the factory districts there was considerable fighting, especially this afternoon, when the shipyard workers on the way home, passing through York street, came under the guns of snipers. The sniping operations continued in this district until late in the evening, and there also was desultory firing in the center of the city.

In the course of the evening persons who had to use tram cars became so nervous that they lay upon the floors of the cars in order to avoid possible bullets.

Heavy firing continued until the curfew hour. Among those killed today was Harry Bowers, who was dead when carried into a hospital, and Thomas McMullan, who was shot in the chest. McMullan's death brought the number of today's fatalities up to six.

Up to tonight there had been eight deaths as a result of the rioting.

Last night's rioting, when two persons were killed and several injured, was the most serious the city has experienced for some time. The police and military were engaged throughout the night in subduing gunmen and snipers who were operating from windows and roofs and who continued their fusillade until after midnight. Street lamps were extinguished and the only light came from burning houses to which the mob had set fire.

The engineers and firemen of the Great Northern Irish Railway, who struck last night as a result of a dispute with the management, returned to their posts this afternoon on the advice of J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railway Men.

Mr. Thomas advised the men to go back to work after the company had agreed to participate in the Irish railway arbitration, now in progress, for a settlement of disputes between the railways and their employees. The Great Northern had previously refused to participate in the arbitration proceedings.

Harding Obtains Raise for Father With Family of 16.

As the result of President Harding"s interest, Mr. and Mrs. Domenico Zaccahea, of New York City, probably will not have to support their sixteen children on $20 a week any longer.

When the President saw a picture of the Zaccahea household he was so interested that he wrote a letter to the parents, congratulating them on their large family.

A few days later the President received a letter from Mrs. Zaccahea She thanked the Presidnt for his letter and referred to the hardships of rearing such a large family on $20 a week.

The President's interest did not stop there. He immediately wrote to John Wanamaker, in whose department store Zaccahea is employed asking if it would not be possible to give the father a raise.

Yesterday the President received a cordial response from Wanamaker assuring him that the matter would be taken up at once.

The police took in custody the alleged proprietor of the establishment who furnished a bond in the sum of $500 for his appearance before the grand jury. The raid was conducted by Chief Goods, Sergt. Wilkinson and Policemen Durrer, Magner, Cline, Talbot nad C. A. Padgett.

It is proposed to make the picnic one long to be remebered by the Sunday School children of Alexandria. The children will take part in most of the events. A big tug-of-war between the Methodist and Baptist men's classes may be one of the features.

Girl Bound And Robbed In Boardwalk Hotel

Atlantic City, Aug. 30.—Interrupted while dressing for dinner by two men, masked and armed with revolvers, who entered her room in a boardwalk hotel here, Miss Ana Knoebe, of Philadelphia, was gagged and bound and robbed of jewelry valued at nearly $15,000 last night.

Despite the precautions of the hotel authorities and the police the robbery became known today. Miss Knoehe, at police headquarters, viewed a lineup of prisoners and the Rogues Gallery, but was unable to pick out her assailants.

Miss Knoehe was found bundled under the covers of the bed in her room, where she was placed by the robbers to prevent her from giving an alarm. Search of her bureau disclosed that the robbers had stolen all the jewelry she brought here on her vacation.

Despite their rude intrusion, the robbers were unusually polite in the way they went about their business. Although she pleaded through her gag that they release her, the robbers refused, but they assured her again and again that they did not like to treat her in this unseemly manner.

"We can't help it, lady. It's gotta be done. An' if we let you loose you'll yell. And that wouldn't do at all. at all," they told her.

Lifting her gently, they carried her to the bed and there piled the blankets high over her. Quickly they searched her clothes and the bureau and dressing table; then quietly departed.

Half an hour later a girl companion knocked at Miss Knoehe's door, found it unlocked, opened it and entered. The alarm was juickly given, but the robbers had escaped.

He escaped from a refromatory in Delaware county, Pennsylvania, last Saturday.

PROPOSE NEW TAX BASIS

Senator Smoot Preparing Bill In Place of House Measure.

WELLS OF REVENUE

Incomes, Tariffs, Tobacco, Estates, Manufactures, Corporations Listed. Other Sources Noted.

Washington, Aug. 30.—A new basis of taxation to take the place of the House Revenue measure and practically all present tax laws was proposed today by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, who announced he was preparing a bill embodying the plan, which he estimated would yield $3,895,000,000 this year. He added that he would take the question up with the Senate Finance Committee when it begins consideration of revenue questions Thursday.

The use of only six sources of taxation, including a tax on manufacturing sales instead of the more than 35 now on the statute books was advocated by Senator Smoot. The six wells from which the Utah Senator proposed to pump revenue and the amounts which he estimated each would yield annually follow:

Income taxes (maximum rate of 32 per cent.), $830,000,000.

Ten per cent. tax on net corporation profits, $445,000,000.

Tobacco taxes (present rates), $255,000,000.

Estate taxes, $150,000,000.

Manufacturers' sales tax (3 per cent), $1,200,000,000.

Import taxes (tariff), $400,000,000.

While the six sources would produce only $3,280,000,000. Mr. Smoot estimated that the other $615,000,000 would be obtained from collection of unpaid taxes, receipts from war salvage and the old tax on withdrawals of liquor from bonded warehouses. Unpaid taxes, he figured, should add $340,000,000 to this year's revenue, war salvage receipts should be around $200,000,000 and the liquor tax should produce another $75,000,000.

The $3,895 000,000 anticipated as the law's yield will exceed the Government commitments at present by $434,700,000, according to Mr. Smoot.

One of the arguments which Mr. Smoot said could be made in favor of his program was its simplicity.

"Anybody can make out his tax returns," if Congress adopts his suggestion, he said, adding that it would result in a saving of perhaps $25,000,000 in the collections and would do away with about two-thirds of the employees in the revenue service.

Special Officer Acquitted

Was Charged With Drawing Pistol On Young Man In Pool Room

After hearing the evidence in the case of a special officer who was cited into the police court today for drawing a pistol on a young man several nights ago while in a King street pool room, the court acquitted the defendant.

The evidence adduced was to the effect that the young man who brought the complaint got into an argument with another man and acted in a menacing manner, putting his hand in his hip pocket. At this juncture the special officer pulled his pistol and separated the men who appeared to him to be about to get into a mixup. In acquitting the defendant the court stated that it was the duty of any citizen to make an effort to stop what they thought might result in a felony, although the court served warning to be careful with pulling a pistol in a crowded place.

Wheel Chair Runaway Girl Returned Home.

New York, Aug. 31.—Edna Townsend, 15 year old crippled girl who ran away in a wheel chair from her home in Baltimore to see New York, went back home today with her father, John Townsend, of the United States coast guard service.

Tracks made by the wheel chair, which Edna propelled to the railroad station in Baltimore, put her father on the scent, and with the aid of the Baltimore police, he arranged to have New York police on the lookout when Edna arrived. Evelyn Elliott, aged 14, who accompanied Edna on the runaway trip, also accompanied her father back to Baltimore.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Harding administration is working at top speed these days to clear the slate of every possible diplomatic question affecting the United States prior to the meeting of the arms conference here in November. The German, Austrian and Hungarian treaties, almost identical, have now been signed, and will be ratified by the Senate during October or sooner. The threatened war in Central America between Panama and Costa Rica has been averted by the timely threat of Secretary of State Hughes to force Panama to evacuate Costa Rican territory if necessary. Secretary Hughes has recently replied to Japan's offer of settlement of the Yap dispute and there is now every prospect that this question will have been satisfactorily disposed of prior to the November conference.

There is hope now that the Mexican question, delayed in settlement since the administration of President Taft may somehow or other be cleared up prior to the assembling of the delegates to the disarmament conference. There is nothing in the present negotiations with Mexico, however to justify any more hope than there has been of immediate settlement of the status of President Obregon.

Suggestions that the treaty with Germany contains a "joker" that might enable the President of the United States to put this government into the League of Nations at any time without consulting Congress were laughed at today in official circles. President Wilson recognized that the obligations of the League of Nations could not be assumed by the United States without the consent of Congress and it was pointed out today that the new treaty even specifically denies the obligations of the League. It was said at the State Department today that the suggestion of the League of Nations undoubtedly was so far fetched as to give rise to a suspicion of propaganda on the part of those raising the question.

The decision of President Harding not to send federal troops into the disturbed sections of West Virginia until the miners have been given an opportunity to return to their homes is viewed with general approval at the National Capital. It has never helped this government, no matter what party was in power, to interfere in the affairs of a state, and if the rioters will cease their violations against law and order in West Virginia and return to their homes, no federal troops will be sent into the state to quell the disturbances which are rapidly assuming a serious nature.

Boyd Smith, a native of Alexandria, now 77 years of age, who was one of Col. Mosby's guerillas, was asked a connundrum in Washington the other day.

"Why is an old man like a grasshopper?" Queried Capt. Smith. His travelling companion was forced to give it up.

"That's easy," replied the genial Captain. "Because he's always chased by the chickens."

President Harding is not going to call a conference of the coal operators and miners in West Virginia. He has sent a reply to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers declining to call such a conference, and pointing out that a special committee of the United States Senate, of which Senator Kenyon, of Iowa is Chairman, is to begin a thorough investigation of the coal situation and the relation of capital to labor in the West Virginia fields on September 19. The President, therefore, does not deem it advisable for the operators nad workers to hold any conference prior to the probe of the Senate Committee.

Police Judge Snow stated today that he did not think there was sufficient evidence to warrant holding Lucas, the only testimony being given was that of the Jackson lad. Jackson, is still held.

TODAY'S THOUGHT I know the disposition of woman: when you will, they won't; when you won't, they set their hearts upon you of their own inclination.

HENRY FORD'S RAILROAD

This man Henry Ford may fairly be called a phenomenon. More ignorant of book-lore than an ordinary twelve-year old child; with a judgment equally immature when it comes to outside matters, he is, withal, one of the shrewdest men of business in the world today. There are many things that can be learned from him by the ordinary man. He in all probability cares little or nothing for publicity. Yet he obtains as much as the central figures of government at Washington. The secret of this, however, is easily understood: he does things worth while, and things in which all mankind are interested. He does them, too, on a scale which is truly Brobdingnagian. But his mind is beyond question a single-track mind. Outside of business affairs he is off the track and he smashes into other mundane matters with a recklessness born only of ignorance and a presumption conceived in the vanity of self-sufficiency. His knowledge of history, or, rather the lack of it, was almost pitiable on the witness-stand. His peace-ship venture literally contributed to the gayety of nations. His attacks on the Jews only added to the other exhibitions of his mental destitution.

The fact remains, however, that he has developed a certain sort of genius in business that has set the world to thinking. In his automobile industry he pays the highest wages, has introduced many admirable features in the treatment of his vast army of employees, and has produced the cheapest car in the world. The very jokes of which it has been an unfailing source, have served to make it the best advertised product in almost any market.

The railroad which he has recently acquired has been lifted out of a slough of financial disaster and made profitable. Ford handles a paradox as if it were the easiest feat in the world. He acquires one of the most complicated of industries, that of transportation—of which he could have had little or no knowledge, and revolutionizes it in a twinkling. He raises wages, reduces rates, and still increases volume of traffic and net earnings. When asked how he did it, he said: "We eliminated waste and dead-wood, and all railroads should do the same thing." With more traffic than the road had ever handled, he still cut down the force of employees from 2700 to 1650. All the employees now have an eight hour day, and the limit at which any person can work is 208 hours per month. The minimum wage is $6 per day of eight hours. In spite of these radical changes the road is operating with an efficiency unprecedented in its history. The cost of operation and maintenance in June of this year was 53 cents for every dollar of revenue, as against 117 cents in June 1920, and 118 cents in June, 1919.

Of course the wiseacres of finance and railroad management are to the front with all sorts of explanations and excuses. We believe, however, that the secret of Ford's success all along the line lies in the simple fact that he has applied the Golden Rule at every point of contact with his fellow-man. The greatest comfort and happiness to his employees; the greatest service to the millions who use his cars; and the lowest possible price to the multitude. Whether consciously or unconsciously we do not attempt to say. But the principle may be easily traced throughout the entire scheme of the Ford enterprises. He has just taken on a 400-mile railroad, and we find the same principle working to perfection. The application of the Golden Rule is not new in business. In fact every great business that ever made a conspicuous success has been built more or less in this spirit. But Ford is the first man, we believe, who has applied it in every relationship of business and at every angle of human intercourse.

TALES OF U. S. TOWNS

(For The Gazette)

Louisville, Ky., is the largest leaf tobacco market in the world.

Chicago has one cold storage plant which will accommodate 21,000 tons of meat.

Dallas, Texas, cuts the weeds on the vacant lots in town and charges the expense to the owners.

Pasadena, Cal., owns and operates the electric light plant, water system and sewer farm and incinerator.

Brooklyn, N. Y., forty years ago earned its enviable name of "City of Churches" with one place of worship for every 2,191 inhabitants; today there is but one for every 4,370 persons residing in the borough.

THE BIG BRICK BUILDING

Miss Williams' pupils had spent several afternoons visiting places of interest about the big city. Under the skillful guidance of their teacher they had found an amazing number of new things in public buildings, factories and on the streets. But of all the places they visited none impressed them so much as the "Children's Home." There they had found boys and girls like themselves, only these boys and girls had no parents to do or them the many loving things which parents do for their children.

"Why can't we be their parents?" asked big hearted Tommy Reed after Miss Williams had explained to the pupils the reason why the people paid taxes for the support of the Children's Home and endeavored to make th little waifs comfortable and give them an opportunity to grow up to be useful men and women.

Tommy s question was escoed by a dozen others, and Miss Williams was quick to seize the opportunity to give her pupils a lesson in unselfish service for others. She asked them what they would like to do ofr their little friends at the Home.

"Let's give them something to play with, they had so few toys," volunteered Jack Benson.

"Yes, and some books too, said Lucy Attwell, "I saw only a few story books in their little reading room."

Miss Williams approved of both suggestions and next day the toys, game and books ebgan piling up on the table arranged to receive the gifts. By the end of the week there were 243 books and 150 games all nicely arranged by the pupils. Then Tommy's mother came in her automobile and the children piled the packages into it, to be followed by the proud committee which was to present the offering of the pupils to the girls and boys at the Children's Home.

As members of the Junior American Red Cross, the pupils of Miss Williams' school proceeded to "adopt" the Home and thereafter many were the pleasures they provided for the kiddies in the big brick building. But Miss Williams talks less about that than she does about the opportunity which came to her pupils to find a way to be of real service.

Getting The Service Habit

So many opportunities for service have been ound by the pupils of the Winchester, Virginia, High School, which is very active in the work of the Junior American Red Cross, that the aim of these Juniors has been described as "Making service a habit."

During the past school year, each girl in the Senior High gave one day's work to the school nurse, helping examine children, arranging the card index, making out reports—in fact, anything the school nurse needed to have done that day. Knowing thta much o this work was confidential, they at once adopted the slogan, "Keep your eyes open, and your mouth shut." They carried this idea into all of their other volunteer service work, thus learning the lesson of fidelity to confidence.

Half a day was given by the girls and many of the boys to the Red Cross Executive Secretary. They did office duty, answered the phone and made appointments. The Commercial Department of the High School rendered and received valuable service by sending its students in turn for a period of one or two weeks to the Red Cross Executive Secretary's office to do regular office duty. Much of the correspondence of the office was done by these Juniors.

Every week of the school year, six of the girls, four Seniors and two Juniors, gave two hours of service regularly, one day each, at the Public Library, helping the younger children find books and library references. This service proved of great value in the girl's civic work and in their English, and also gave them a fine start toward practical vocational work.

Two of the Senior girls were in charge of the community playground during the summer vacation. A third is the afvorite Story-Hour visitor at the Library.

It is the belief of the faculty of the Winchester High School that the extension of such volunteer service on the part of Juniors in high schools will constitute a corrective for the apparent indifference to civic and social conditions which now exists in many localities.

Veteran Motorcyclist On Tour

A motorcycle enthusiast and rider since 1903, F. Mac Schellenger, of Beloit, Wisconsin, apparently loves the sport more than ever. He is leaving his home town the latter part of this month for a 2000 mile tour to Yellowstone Park and back, with his sidecar combination. In a letter telling o his plans recently received by a member o the Chicago Motorcycle Club, Mr. Schellenger said: "There is no sport equal to motorcycling. There is where you have the chance to enjoy life and nature as no other can. I am past 52 years old and have owned and ridden motorcycles for the past 18 years, so I speak from long experience on both sides. Since interesting myself in motorcycling, my years have been full of pleasure and satisfaction."

Mr. Schellenger is Secretary of the motorcycle Club in his city and is affectionately known as "Dad" by the members.

Keeping Them Busy

Among the Red Cross Chapters which have found a wide field of usefulness for the girls and boys of the Junior Aemrican Red Cross, is the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter. This Chapter, includes the city of Philadelphia and the our surrounding counties, presenting the needs of the large city schoo1 and the one room rural school, also. In the Chapter there have been enrolled 470 Junior school auxiliaries which included 236,000 children who contributed $11,535.59 to the Junior und. A great variety of activities on the part of the schools has marked the successful carrying out of a carefully organized program.

FEARED HE WOULD HAVE TO GIVE UP

Man Is Back On His Job Feeling Just Fine.

"I had been off work ten days and thought I was going to have to give up for good, but Tanlac saved the day for me and now I'm back at work feeling fine," said W. H. Haislip, 202 Magazine St., Covington, Va., a wheelwright for the West Virginian Pulp and Paper Co.

"I was just about on my last lap," explained Mr. Haislip," and was so broken down in health I was ready to give up the fight. I had lost weight considerably and got so weak I couldn't hold out through the day. My stomach gave me all sorts of trouble and everything I ate seemed to turn against me.

"I had a stubborn case of constipation, often had bilious spells and my complexion turned yellow. My back ached night and day, and I actually had to walk all bent over to stand the pain. I didn't know what a good night's rest was, and in the morning I was stiff all over and my knees ached so I could hardly get about.

"Things looked pretty gloomy, and finally my wife took matters in her own hands and went down town to get me some Tanlac. Well, sir, the very first bottle turned things right around for me, and I kept picking up until now my friends on all sides are surprised to see me looking so well and strong. Tanlac has made a clean sweep of all my troubles, and I have picked up in weight and feel like a brand-new man. I can stand up under as heavy work as I ever could in my life, and I couldn't ask to be in better health."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr.

POLITICS

(Editorial)

The manner in which the war has been conducted from its commencement to the present time, has been generally reprobated, as well by the friends as by the foes of the administration. Armies have been lost by the ignorance, treachery or cowardice of their officers, and the most favorable opportunities for military enterprise suffered to pass unimproved, merely because the government has neglected to furnish its combatants with arms and provisions. .....

..... An express from General Harrison reached Pittsburg, bringing intelligence of the imminent danger of Fort Meigs, and stating that he was unable to relieve it for the want of FLINTS, having at that time 2,000 muskets, NOT ONE OF WHICH WAS FURNISHED WITH A FLINT!

GHOSTS FOR DEFENSE!

The plaintiff in the suit claimed a quarter's rent of a house in Cherry Street, due the 1st instant. The defense was that the house was haunted by ghosts and therefore untenantable by man. The defendant proved that he hired the house, not knowing that it had the reputation of being inhabited by supernatural beings; that soon after taking possession, a lighted candle, placed on a mantelpiece, went out twice without assignable cause. That a third attempt was followed by the witness being seized by the arm, by an invisible hand, and turned completely around! That dead men's bones were found in closets and elsewhere. Some witnesses deposed that while the house was unoccupied, they had several times observed a blue flame inside which gave no light to the windows. The jury returned a verdict of ten dollars, being amount due plaintiff up to the time the ghosts appeared.—(N. Y. Com. Advertiser.)

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Business conditions reflect more clearly than a month ago the improvement then under way, though it was then, as now, somewhat obscured by the usual midsummer dullness. The increased availability of credit and teh marked declines which have taken place in money rates in the last six months are among the surest evidences that the betterment is founded on improved fundamental conditions.

The money markets have now been definitely tested by the early and heavy movement of wheat. By the time the crest of the wheat movement has passed, the cotton crop will be coming on the market. Reviewing the entire situation, and giving due weight to the many factors affecting the market, business operations at this time should be based on probable continuance of rates at levels not far from those now prevailing. This should not be regarded as undesirable, since a stabilization of rates at these levels would be in line with the reestablishment of business activities on a sound and permanent basis.

Although there is plenty of money, the demand for its heavy and any judgment of the future course of money rates must take account of the inter-relation between bank credit for current producing and merchandizing operations and the requirements for funds for more or less permanent financing.

While recognizing the factors for lower money rates, there are powerful forces which tend to maintain them. The violent declines in commodity and security prices have aureductions at point of shipment have tomatically tended to reduce bank deposits at the same time that loan requirements have been falling. In other words, while the decline in the price level does to some extent release credit supplies it does not necessarily work uniformly in this direction.

A further influence for maintenance of the rate levels lies in the large sums tied up in carrying huge stocks of nonsalable raw materials in various parts of the world. Additional money will also be required from time to time as new crops are produced. Wool, hides and skins, sugar, coffee, cotton and rubber represent the more serious credit problems of this class.

Business Improvement

Condition in July have all tended to confirm the belief that genuine business improvement is under way. Manufacturers in many lines are sometimes wont to express a sense of discouragement, however, because forward orders are not as heavy as they were during the late priod of normal business activity. It is doubtful whether this isjustified. Good business policy requires caution on the part of buyers. Failure to exercise it contributed to the difficulties from which the country is beginning to recover. Smaller orders for early delivery if received in sufficient amount to maintain operations on a reasonablo basis are at this time an indication of a healthy condition.

Building

The fact that building operations have persistd in fair volume in the face of many adverse circumstances, is a most encouraging factor in the general situation. Conditions at the opening of the current building season afforded little hope for an active year. Many materials have not come down proportionally with other prices, and in those lines in which not come down proportionally with other prices, and in those lines in which price reductions at point of shipment have been severe, freight rates have prevented builders from realizing any great reduction in material costs. Labor continues high, and this together with the general uncertainty of the business outlook has had a depressing effect.

Nevertheless, operations for the first seven months, as measured by contracts awarded and permits issued indicate a restricted but a persitent building program, well main tained through July.

RICHMOND THEATRE

"To Please One Woman," the chief film attraction at the Richmond Theatre today and during the first part of the week, will not only please all the women, but the men as well. It is singularly appealing story of small town life and the havoc wrought by the influence of a selfish woman of the "vampire" type that is unfolded in Lois Weber's latest production. Miss Weber possesses the happy faculty of portraying with dramatic skill some of the phases of our social life that other screen producers have thus far overlooked. Claire Windsor, Mona Lisa, and Edward Burns enact the principal roles

Charlie Chaplin will be shown as an extra attraction in a comedy just shown in Washington.

INGOMAR—"THE BAIT"

Maurice Tourneur's Paramount production, "The Bait," in which Hope Hampton, a beautiful screen player is featured, and which comes to the Ingomar Theatre, is said to be exceedingly worth while. The story is a powerful one and the situations are said to be dramatic to a degree. The supporting cast is excellent.

BALM FOR THE REJECTED

Words From a Kindly Reader of Manuscripts

The cruel business of sending rejection slips to hopeful authors gives very little time or place for the exercise of "the humanities." Indeed, the reader often enough wishes for an opportunity to express some sentiment besides stereotyped disapproval or lack of interest, for he is generally wholly devoid of harsh feelings, and not in the least bored by the floods of unavailable manuscripts that must go back whence they came. Contrary to public opinion, it is no fearful task to read and pass upon manuscripts. Instead, it is one of the most romantic of pastimes. One's fingers clutch strands from the far ends of the earth, and stow away into one place each day such a collection of the great and the lowly as would put an ordinary city street to shame. Here East meets West and all nations gather, striving in friendly fashion for that seemingly unattainable thing, editorial favor. And to the magazine reader, who merely picks the shep from the goats, one great interest must always be the personality of the contributor.

How many strange people one meets, and how very well one learns to know them! Particularly is this true of the Unpublished, for they have not yet learned to hide all things under the cloak of art, or to serve up startling reality with the grace and inevitability of fiction. Their work is replete with life in the the rough; they deal but rarely with pure fancy, and even then sometimes the alchemy fails—somewhere the art wears thin and the gilt of romance rubs off and reveals the reality beneath. One may probe with the analyst's full joy, and discover with surprising accuracy of what stuff contributors are made, and what experiences their lives have held. One may work in vast fields for the trusting contributor pours out to his all to the editor—his age and ambition, his heart's secrets and his financial status, his family skeleton—and lets them all gather to await the editor's momentary decision of their right to fame.

Story Of The Little Princess

Away off in Carpathian Russia there is a school aided by the girls and boys of the Junior American Red Cross where thirty orphan children have found a home and kind teachers who are training them to be useful men and women in the years to come.

One day not very long ago, these Ruthenian children celebrated a festival by giving a little play which was witnessed by a representative of the Junior Red Cross. It was the unfolding of the Junior idea of unselfish service for others.

When the curtain was drawn aside there appeared a beautiful little princess, so beautiful that everyone bowed down before her. But there was one rebellious old man who declared he would never bow before her. This made the little princess very sad, until her counsellors told her the old man would bow down with the others when she was as wise as she was beautiful.

The princess went about to acquire wisdom, and the Arts and Sciences came to instruct her. After a time all the people bowed before her, as much for her wisdom as for her beauty. Still the old man refused to make obeisance. Disconsolate because of this, the little princess sat weeping in her room when she had some one crying outside her window. Looking out she discovered a group of hungry children begging for bread. Calling them in with loving words, she gave them bread and cake and sought to make them comfortable and happy.

As the princess sat alone wishing that she might relieve all the misery in the world, the old man entered and bowed before her. He said: "I would not worship you or your beauty I would not worship you for your wisdom, but I worship you now for your goodness of heard. Beauty and Wisdom are only worthy of worship when they are joined to Goodness."

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Alexandria Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips?

That's the home of backache.

If it's caused by weak kidneys, Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Alexandria people testify to their worth. Ask your neighbor! Read a case of it:

Mrs. Martha L. Byrne, 209 Wilkes St., made the following statement on November 3, 1910: "I was suffering severely from backache and pains all through my body. My kidneys were certainly badly disordered. I was steadily becoming run down. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills helped me and I kept on using them and now enjoy good health and do not hesitate to give all the credit to Doan's."

Over eight years later, on March 14, 1919, Mrs. Byrne added: "Doan's Kidney Pills keep my kidneys in a good healthy condition. I use them occasionally and have found them a fine remedy."

Where Soldiers Drilled

Tucked away in a far corner of Ruthenia in Eastern Europe, there is a little village called Uzhorod, where the girls and boys of the Junior American Red Cross are aiding in the support of a home school for two score boys who lost their parents in the great war. They call their school an "internat."

It was the middle of a bright summer afternoon when visitors from the American Red Cross caled at the Uzhorod school. Most of the boys were on the playground, but in the yard near the kitchen six or eight boys were found busily peeling potatoes. "We never have any trouble getting volunteers for that job," the director explained. "We simply tell the boys that they may have as many potatoes for supper as they will peel."

Word soon went forth that the visitors wished to take the boys' pictures There was an immediate rush for the wash basins. Hair brushes, clothes brushes, and shoe brushes appeared miraculouly and a busy five minutes ensued. One zealous youngster went the length of procuring from somewhere a bottle of cleaning fluid and after removing an offending spot from his own coat he pressed the services of his "instantaneous remover" upon his friends. It was all very funny, but it pointed to the sort of training these boys were receiving at their "internat."

This school is among the fortunate few in Southeastern Europe possessing a large playground. The Uzhorod boys utilize a big open space that during the war was used by the soldiers as a drill ground. Recently a friend who visited the "internat" gave the boys a sum of money and they voted to spend all of their unexpectd wealth in the purchase of a football. Now, during the long afternoons the Americans game proceeds merrily on the Uzhorod playground where once soldiers marched and countermarched.

Busy Island Juniors

In none of Uncle Sam's possessions is there a stronger organization of the Junior American Red Cross than is to be found in Porto Rico. The Juniors of that Island have appropriated $6,000, to aid in constructing a school and library at a children's sanatorium, they have set aside $1,300 to stimulate gardening contests they have provided 3,000 suit of clothes and 2,000 pairs of shoes for needy school children, have donated $200 to a child welfare association, purchased victrolas for rural schools and set up a scholarship in the Normal School of the University of Porto Rico to be awarded to the high school student of highest standing. They have provided visiting nurses for the schools, have arranged for hot lunches for the pupils. have provided dental clinics, purchased play ground equipment. and are carrying on a number of educational projects in the schools which have greatly increased the interest of the pupils in the daily program.

MIDSHIPMAN DIES OF BOXING BLOW

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 31.—William S. Hayes, Jr., of Lockhaven, Pa., 17, a member of the new fourth class of the Naval Academy, died early yesterday morning at the Naval Hospital here of injuries suffered August 20 while boxing with a classmate. It is the second death from injuries suffered while boxing at the Academy during the present school year.

The fatal bout in which Hayes was engaged was one of the battalion series, which has been going on for two weeks. He was dazed by a blow on the chin, but not knocked down. Officials stopped the bout. It is believed a blood vessel had been broken by the jarring of his head. He became much worse yesterday.

The parents of the youth were with him when he died. Funeral services were held at the chapel yesterday afternoon, 700 classmates of Midshipman Hayes attending. The body will be taken to Lockhaven for burial tomorrow.

HEALTH THE KEYNOTE TO BEAUTY

Beauty means so much to women—power, social triumph, admiration and love. Beauty implies good health. Who ever saw a woman racked with pain, struggling with weakness or disease, who could be called beautiful? The woman of today in this high-strung, nervous age is continually overdoing, with the result that ills peculiar to her sex develop which, un checked, will ruin all chances for her happiness. The natural restorative for such ailments is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been recognized as a standard remedy for women's ills, and has done much to relieve pain and restore good health to women.

A RICHMOND MAN IN SERBIA.

In the background is shown Capt. W. H. Day, Richmond, Va., superintendent of supplies for the Red Cross Commission to Serbia, watching a typical street scene in Belgrade. The herdsmen market their milk without any middleman. They take their flock of milch goats through the city and peddle the warm lacteal fluid to the busy housewives, who bring their pitchers and nursing bottles when they hear the tinkle of the goat's bell. The photograph was taken from the steps of the Red Cross warehouse in the city. Join or renew your membership in the American Red Cross during the Roll Call, November 11 to 26.

When you come right down to reason, what is there to "discount" tires—

THE next time a friend comes to you all excited about some wonderful tire bargain—ask him how much value he ought to get for each dollar of tire money.

It's astonishing that any car owner today should not know all the tire service he is entitled to.

Nor how to check up between the economy of par quality on one hand—and big discounts, surplus stocks, discontinued lines and retreads on the other.

* * *

For two years U. S. Tire makers have been telling the American people all about tires.

They have laid open the tire business from every angle.

They have always led the fight for better tires.

They have consistently maintained quality first standards with certain economy for the tire buyer.

They have established 92 Factory Branches all over the country. Perfecting U. S. distribution so that you get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire.

* * *

So when a man once decides on U. S. Tires he knows what he is getting in quality—service—economy.

In support of his own judgment he gets the pledged word and reputation of the largest and most successful tire concern in the world.

A sound reason for the fact that you see more U. S. Tires on more cars than ever this year.

"You get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire."

The U. S. CHAIN TREAD
One of the few tires of which it may be said that they deliver economy year in and year out and tire after tire.
